Introducing The Postpartum Toolkit

Ariana “Ari” Albanese attended Harvard College where she received a Bachelor of Arts Degree magna cum laude in History and Literature with a minor in Psychology.

She is a doctoral student at Drexel University in the Clinical Psychology PhD program where she has a major area of study in Health Psychology.

Ariana is currently completing predoctoral internship at the Alpert Medical School of Brown University in the Health Psychology/Behavioral Medicine Track. Her anticipated graduation date is June 2022.

After graduation she will be staying at Brown for a postdoctoral fellowship in implementation science.

Her research interests involve clarifying the factors impacting parental-child well-being during pregnancy and postpartum, and the development of interventions to better support parents through the postpartum transition.
