2023 INTERDISCIPLINARY CONFERENCE

No One Left Behind:

How Perinatology can be a Leader in Equitable Care from Public Health to Rare Diseases

- April 19-21, 2023
- University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

WELCOME

We're so grateful that you've joined us.

Interdisciplinary collaboration is at the core of National Perinatal Association's mission. NPA has always strived to be a place where colleagues from across our various disciplines could come together, meet as a community, share ideas, and learn from each other.

These past couple of years of the pandemic have been difficult ones for our perinatal community. The arrival of the COVID-19 virus seriously limited our ability to meet and collaborate - arguably at the time when we needed each other the most.

The emergence of this virus also dramatically changed the way we deliver care. While we've seen some amazing responses, innovations, and solutions - we've also seen some serious failures.

We have all learned so much - and we are looking forward to sharing these new, hard-earned lessons with each other this week.

While we're together, our goal is to create a meeting environment that is safe, healthy, and affirming. Thank you for helping us create that space.

With Respect and Admiration for Everything You Do Every Day -

Kristy Howell

NPA Executive Director

With Gratitude to Our Conference Co-Chairs

- Tiffany Willis, PsyD
- Cody Miller Pyke, MD, JD, LLM, MSBe

Please help us by beginning each day with:

- a brief health evaluation
- a temperature check

People attending the NPA conference work with and care for people who are especially vulnerable to the negative health effects of COVID-19 infection - including pregnant people, parents, and babies.

Please wear a mask when interacting with other conference attendees in shared meeting spaces.

When I wear a mask I protect you. When you wear a mask you protect me. When we all wear masks we protect parents and babies.

INDICATION

SYNAGIS, 50 mg and 100 mg for injection, is indicated for the prevention of serious lower respiratory tract disease caused by respiratory syncytial virus (RSV) in pediatric patients:

- with a history of premature birth (≤35 weeks gestational age) and who are 6 months of age or younger at the beginning of RSV season
- with bronchopulmonary dysplasia (BPD) that required medical treatment within the previous 6 months and who are 24 months of age or younger at the beginning of RSV season
- with hemodynamically significant congenital heart disease (CHD) and who are 24 months of age or younger at the beginning of RSV season

LIMITATIONS OF USE

The safety and efficacy of SYNAGIS have not been established for treatment of RSV disease.

CONTRAINDICATIONS

Previous significant hypersensitivity reaction to SYNAGIS.

IMPORTANT SAFETY INFORMATION

Hypersensitivity Reactions: Anaphylaxis and anaphylactic shock (including fatal cases) and other severe acute hypersensitivity reactions have been reported. Permanently discontinue SYNAGIS and administer appropriate medication if such reactions occur.

Coagulation Disorders: SYNAGIS should be given with caution to children with thrombocytopenia or any coagulation disorder.

RSV Diagnostic Test Interference: Palivizumab may interfere with immunological-based RSV diagnostic tests, such as some antigen detection-based assays.

Serious Adverse Reactions: The most common serious adverse reactions occurring with SYNAGIS are anaphylaxis and other acute hypersensitivity reactions.

Most Common Adverse Reactions: The most common adverse reactions are fever and rash.

Postmarketing Experience: Severe thrombocytopenia and injection site reactions have been identified during post approval use of SYNAGIS.

Because these reactions are reported voluntarily from a population of uncertain size, it is not always possible to reliably estimate their frequency or establish a causal relationship to drug exposure.

These are not all the possible risks associated with SYNAGIS.

Please see full Prescribing Information for SYNAGIS, including Patient Information, at https://synagishcp.com/synagis.pdf

To report suspected adverse reactions, contact Sobi North America at 1-866-773-5274 or the FDA at 1-800-FDA-1088.
