Centering a Practice of Hope to Advance Birth Justice

Founder & CEO of a community based organization international doula certifying organization founded in the Fall of 2008 in Brooklyn, New York with the goal to offer quality doula services to women of color and low income families who otherwise would not be able to afford doula care centered in a reproductive justice and birth justice framework.

I have worked on numerous advocacy projects centered around legislative policy on medicaid reimbursement, reproductive health, and human and civil rights within childbirth.

My work has expanded to provide consultancy to various organizations on the intersections of human rights, reproductive justice and policy that affirms transparency and accountability measures with hospital based institutions.

My work has been featured in various publications such as the NY Times, Self Magazine, Center for American Progress, The Hill, Rewire, and various documentaries by VICE News, Death By Delivery, The Root, Elle & Vogue Magazine, and more.
